PORK PICKIN'S

Appomattox Pork Producers

The Appomattox County Pork Producers will hold their monthly meeting on Tuesday, April 23rd at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held of the county extension office on Court Street. Please try to attend.

On last Thursday night the South Central Feeder Association and the Piedmont Pork Producers held their second Crossbred Gilt Sale. The offerings were of excellent quality. Forty gilts were sold for an average price of $84.25. This was approximately only eleven dollars above market hogs.

John Paulette of Nottoway County purchased the largest number of gilts and purchased the top selling pen. The top selling single gilt was produced by Snowden Corp and sold to Terra Lea Farms of Appomattox County.

The three consigners were Benwal Farms of Powhatan, Snowden Corp. and Valleydale Farms.

Many producers who should have been present to purchase much needed herd improvement stock from this area were visibly absent.

The Piedmont Pork Producers board of directors held their monthly meeting on Monday night as guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson of Appomattox. Before the business meeting the directors along with their wives were served a buffet supper by the Wilson. The area Porkettes meet in conjunction with the board meeting. Plans were made for a full membership meeting in May and a Pork Producers Tour this summer.

Consumers, remember that the pork producers are striving to produce a quality product at a reasonable price, if the retailers would but pass it on to you!

Nearly 300 Ford dealership car and truck salesmen in Ford Division's Richmond sales district have been named members of Lawson Ford Division's exclusive 300-500 Club, an organization of top salesmen.

They were honored at a dinner at the Holiday Inn Scope in Norfolk, Va., last Saturday, April 6, for their individual sales success during the 1973 calendar year.

Award winning salesmen from Lawson Ford, Inc., of Appomattox were Page Petty, Pat Lair and Bill Moss.

Included among the award winners from southern Virginia and eastern North Carolina were 10 car and truck salesmen who earned Ford Division's highest salesman honor, the Top Hatter Award. Nationally, only 486 of the 28,000 Ford dealership salesmen were named Top Hatters for 1973. In addition, special Sales Award were presented to salesmen whose achievements neared Top Hatter level.

M. J. Ellsworth, Ford Division's Richmond district sales manager, congratulated the car and truck salesmen on their achievements. He said the purpose of the 300-500 Club is to recognize outstanding salesmen and to highlight automotive sales positions as a "valuable service to the national economy and the local community."

BEWARE OF SPRINGTIME HOME REPAIR FRAUDS

As the spring season approaches the State Attorney General's Office and VDACS Consumer Affairs join forces to caution consumers to be wary of the operators of "home repair" frauds. Complaints received by the Office of Consumer Affairs indicate that these practices have become one of the most serious forms of fraud problems in the state.

A typical case, a repairman may call on a potential victim and say that his company is working in the neighborhood and would be happy to make an inspection of the roof, the furnace, gutters, etc. In almost every case in which such an inspection, he will find serious defects and recommend immediate repair.

Unsuspecting persons involved in this type of consumer fraud will sometimes go to great lengths as having the inspection as an official part of some governmental agency. This "inspector" will make suggestions or defects in what he is inspecting, and then the shocked homeowner is told he has a certain number of days to have them repaired. Then, a representative of the repair company will appear at the door with the inspector who is working in the area. He thought he would like to see if the homeowner had any work done.

In the case of repairs and/or improvements in which these frauds are conducted is almost unlimited such as furnaces, roofing, waterproofing, roofing, gutter repair, and installation. However, there are also many legitimate home repair/home improvement contractors. The problem confronting a homeowner who wishes to have work done on his home is to insure that he is dealing with one of the legitimate contractors.

The Virginia Office of Consumer Affairs and the Attorney General's Office recommend that consumers carry out the following procedures before signing a contract for work on their home:

1. Verify the authenticity of any person claiming to be an "inspector" by checking with the government agency which he claims to represent.

2. Check with agencies such as a local better business bureau, a local consumer affairs office, or the State Office of Consumer Affairs in Richmond, to see if complaints have been received against the firm which is trying to induce you to allow them to conduct a "free inspection" or to sign a contract.

3. If the contract is being negotiated in your home, be extremely suspicious of signing any contract which does not contain the three-day cancellation clause required by Virginia law.

4. You should be wary of any firm which does not have a permanent address which you can verify. You probably will be unable to reach this firm to obtain any recourse for unsatisfactory work.

5. If you do decide to have the work done, insist on a firm price before allowing work to begin, or you may well be charged whatever the contractor believes you are able to pay.

The best way to protect yourself from any form of consumer fraud is to recognize and avoid it before it happens. Therefore, you should never allow yourself to be pressured into signing a contract with a home improvement contractor until you have satisfied yourself that he is a legitimate contractor.

The majority of home improvement contractors are legitimate and resent the bad name given to their industry by the fraudulent minority. Thus, legitimate contractors will be happy to have you check them out before signing a contract. Remember, government agencies may be able to help you after you have been victimized, but only you can prevent that victimization from occurring.
